
Both settings use each target cell’s own frozen capacity model; this is not zero-shot transfer of the whole model.